About Girona

More than a thousand years of history watch over the small and harmonious Girona capital city, which has managed with the utmost of care to preserve the legacy of all the eras and sensitivities that have left their mark on the city: in an old quarter that takes pride in each and every one of the stones that dress its medieval facades, the most notable attractions include the Jewry, an exemplar of the Jewish quarter that is unique in the world, the cathedral, a singular example of Gothic architecture, its museum, with the Creation Tapestry and the Beatus, the wall enclosing the old quarter, and Cinema Museum.

Girona is a beautiful and well-connected province nearby the Mediterranean Sea, offering excellent local amenities and possibilities for sightseeing, cultural activities and entertainment; supported by first-class gastronomy (<https://www.girona.cat/turisme/eng/>). It is home of the renowned Costa Brava, with astonishing mountain and coastal landscapes at short distance from the capital city.

How to get to Girona

- Information at the University of Girona website: <https://www.udg.edu/en/coneix/la-udg/campus-universitari>
- Information at the official website of the Visitors Office in Girona <http://www.girona.cat/turisme/eng/transports.php>
- By Air: You can use either the Girona-Costa Brava airport or the Barcelona-El Prat airport.
 - From Girona-Costa Brava airport to Girona city centre. The Girona-Costa Brava airport (also called Barcelona-Girona airport) is located 12km away from Girona capital city and has good road connections to the city centre by car, taxi or bus; but there is no train service to and from Girona city. Bus connection: <https://www.sagales.com/en>
 - From Barcelona-El Prat airport to Girona city centre. The Barcelona-El Prat airport is located 110km away from Girona city and has very good connections by bus or train. It is a big airport with two terminals, T1 and T2.

- Train connection: The Barcelona airport train station (RENFE) is opposite to T2, and is connected to this terminal via an air bridge. There is also a bus transit service between the train station and T1. When you arrive to the airport train station, take R2 line from Airport to Barcelona-Sants. There is a train every 30 minutes. Then, take an MD train from Barcelona-Sants to Girona. The trip takes 1h 25 min approx. You also have the option to take a REGIONAL train, it is cheaper but takes more time. Check in <http://rodalies.gencat.cat/en/index.html> the timetables of the trains from Barcelona-Sants to Girona. You also have the option to take a fast train (AVE or AVANT); the price is slightly more expensive, but the trip takes just 38 min. Check in <http://www.renfe.com/EN/viajeros/index.html> the timetables of the trains from Barcelona-Sants to Girona. If you choose this fast option we recommend buying the ticket in advance through the previous web page.
- Bus connection to Girona: The company www.sagales.com/en links Barcelona Airport (T1 and T2) and Girona Bus Station (in the city centre).
- By Train: Girona's train station is located at the city centre. There are regular lines (both conventional and high-speed AVE/AVANT) connecting Girona with Europe and the rest of Spain. There are many trains to and from Barcelona city. Check out <http://www.renfe.com/> for the timetables.
